Tells the Story.

The Clevelands had no mercy on Mercer yesterday afternoon. The young man hurt his ankle in the first inning, but he pluckily resumed play. It is in keeping with good judgment to say that the injury materially weakened his usual effectivness, as the Spiders jumped on him in the second inning and hit him for seven hits with a total of nine bases, scoring eight runs, six of which were earned.
Two of the hits were very lucky, one getting away from Selbach as the latter jumped against the right field fence. The other was a line hit to Radford.
The base hits in the second inning came so

The base hits in the second inning came so fast that they reminded one of a hail storm while sitting under a tin roof. They were "jim dandies," according to the accepted interpretation of the word. And the fielding of the visitors, too, was very fast. In fact, there were two catches as marvelous and lucky as winning in a lottery. Then again Young was in the box, and the Senators hit him only in two innings, and then for but a few hits in ble of liadford's grounder made the two men safe. Radford was forced at second by Esper's hit. Joyce then sent out a liner for two bases, on which Selbach scored and Esper reached third. A timely hit by Abbey scored Esper, but Joyce could get no further than third. Maxuire met the ball square and it sailed away out into left center. O'Conner went after it He sprinted at the speed of Detroit, making three-quarters in 1:16. His right hand was extended, and the crowd was cheering at the great hit. How quickly it changed, O'Conner had caught the ball. It was a marvelous, wonderful catch. That catch swept away any possible chance the Senators had to win, as Hassamaer went out to O Connor, and the 3,000 people were out of sorts about it, but the Clevelands were in high giee, and both these elements, like base hits and errors, in a game of ball, Figaro and Captain T. Were the Only Winning Outsiders at Gravesend. New York, June 5 .- At Morris Park to-day the first race was a good betting contest, for almost all of the horses were backed to some extent. Sirocco had but little difficulty in winning, while Wah Jim got the place easily.

Judge Morrow was the choice of the talent in he second race and won romping. In the third race Peacemaker was a strong odds on favorite and won all the way. In the liarlem stakes Midgley staggered in ahead of Paladin, who would have shown better with a fift start. Pierre Lorillard sent his commissioners to flood the ring on Dolabra, who might have won had the distance been three furlongs. Summaries:

Since the spirit of strife has become so strong at Samon the three powers protecting the islands have been strongly impressed with the necessity of disarming the natives. So far a sufficient force has not been available to undertake this task, which would probably be vigorously resisted, but it is probable that with the attendance of a United States man-of-war, in addition to the British and German vessels, the King will be able to do this, and thus for a time at least restore peace to the distracted islands.

Mediarr electrified the crowd by catching a liner off Maguire's bat with his left hand after a high jump, and making a double play at first. O'Conner also made a wonderful running catch of a fly sent out far into left center by the same player. These plays practically saved the game for the Spiders.

The home team went first to the bat, and Young sent Joyce to base on balls. Abbey had two strikes when the western "Cvilone" and scored on McKenn's error.

Two men were left on bases in the eighth after hitting safely.

In the minth it looked as though the Senators had a chance to win the game out. Ewing's error put Selbach on first and McKeng's fumilie of McKeng's remainder the senators had been senators before the senators and the senators had been senators.

base hits and errors, in a game of ball.

After the home team retired the Spiders without scoring a run when the bases were full in the first, nearly every one present thought the Washingtons were in the fame, but haseballiting the old saving of "there's no telling what a day may bring forth," the second inning proved a cloudburst. Twelve times did men face Mr. Mercer, and seven times the ball went safe, twice for doubles. There was one error, eight runs were scored, and six were earned. The audience did not appreciate this bifting, but the Clevelands

In supporting their request for a reduction of the bonds, the counsel for the defence argued that the present amount, $2,500, was in excess of that which is generally imposed for the most aggravated cases of bigamy, and that it placed the liberation of the rrisoner beyond the power of his friends. The placing of bail was only to insure the presence of the criminal at his trial, and a smaller amount would suffice in this case. His appearance would be assured by the character and extant of his family, who occupy a high social standing in Baltimore.

Lawyer Peters based his argument against reducing the bail of the prisoner on the ground that the character of the man did not justify it, although it would undoubtedly be a kindness to the bereaved family. If the man did not have reputable persons back of him be would be compelled to remain imprisoned as many an humble man had done. Then Esper went into the box, and he pitched but three balls in the third, Young going out to G. Tebeau, Childs to Joyce, and Burkett to Abbey.

JOCKEY SLACK WAS SET DOWN

Grand Prix, at 1 to 3, Was the Only Winning Favorite-Salisbury, Helen H, Miss Doloris Filly, and Annorean the Other Winners. Race Course Gossip.

A fair-sized crowd attended the races of the Old Dominion Jockey Club on Alexander Island yesterday. Starter Cassidy was very 'yellow" in his work with the flag, only managing to send one field away in good shape, In the first race he dropped the flag before salisbury got back to his field. When the flag fell the gelding was opposite the judges' stand, and he wheeled and got four lengths the best of the start, which aided him mais a rather severe penalty.

to Samon within a few weeks. Recent dispatches from the islands indicate that the situation is very critical, with an armed force of natives numerically stronger than the king's army drawn up in battle array and threatening to overturn the government. The situa-tion gives rise to grave apprehension, for as the foreigners resident on the islands have steadily given aid and comfort to the present government, in which their interests are bound up, its overthrow might result in serious loss of life and property.

The Samoans are notoriously cruel and re-lentless in war, and it might go hard with the foreigners, whom they regard as their op-pressors, in the event of the success of the its overthrow might result in serious loss
